TOMATO SAUSAGE EGG BITES

Flaky puff pastry cups filled with sausage, cherry tomatoes, onion and melty cheese, baked into fluffy egg bites.

Makes 12 · 45 min

Ingredients

FILLING

- 1 tbsp olive oil
- ½ yellow onion, diced
- 1 cup cherry tomatoes, quartered
- ½ roll Impossible Sausage savory roll (about 7 oz)
- ¼ cup dairy-free Boursin, Garlic & Herb
- ½ cup shredded dairy-free cheddar, divided (recommend Violife)
- ¼ cup dairy-free Parmesan, divided (recommend Follow Your Heart)

CUPS & EGG

- 2 sheets puff pastry, thawed
- 1 bottle Just Egg (12 oz)
- ¼ cup Cashew Cream ✦
- Salt and pepper

Method

1. Preheat your oven to 350°F.
2. Dice your onion, and chop your tomatoes into fourths.
3. Pan-sear the onions in olive oil until they turn translucent. In the same pan, add the Impossible sausage and tomatoes. Break up the sausage into crumbles, and cook until golden brown.
4. Cut circles out of your puff pastry, roughly three inches in diameter. Place them into the cups of a cupcake baking pan.
5. Add the Boursin and half of the shredded cheeses to your mixture, and then fill the puff pastry cups with it.
6. In a bowl, add your Just Egg and ¼ cup of cashew cream. Season with salt and pepper.
7. Pour the egg mix into each cup, and top with the rest of the shredded cheeses.
8. Bake for 25–30 minutes, or until the egg stops being jiggly.

✦ NOTES ✦

If you don't want to make cashew cream, feel free to use a dairy-free milk. To reheat, simply pop them in the air fryer for a few minutes.
